YOUNG MEN'S COMMITTEE MOVEMENT GOT GOOD START AT LAST EVENING'S MEET

ENTHUSIASTIC BUNCH OF BOOSTERS TALKED OVER PLANS FOR ORGANIZATION OF THE YOUNGER MEN AT THE CITY HALL LAST EVENING.

YOUNG MEN HAVE DECIDED TO HOLD A BIG MASS MEETING

All Will Join Citizens' Association and Those Who Wish May Belong to the Young Men's Branch of the Club—Plan Meets Hearty Approval of All—Committee Will Name Night for the Big Meeting and Perfect Arrangements.

About thirty young men attended an informal meeting of those interested in the movement to organize a young men's auxiliary committee of the Citizens' association, and a very enthusiastic and harmonious session resulted.

The most important decision arrived at by the young fellows was to arrange for a big mass meeting, to be held within a week or ten days at which time the organization of the committee will take place. No officers will be elected and no steps will be taken until the mass meeting, when everyone will have an opportunity to be present and have a vote in the proceedings.

G. E. Boynton was the chairman of last evening's meeting and he stated the plans for organization that the young men who started the movement had worked out, which are briefly, that there are many young men in Dixon who are concerned in the prosperity of the city and are anxious to boost but who are not members of the Citizens' association, and that some way should be provided for these younger citizens to work out their enthusiastic boosting ideas. There are many things the younger men can do that the directors of the older organization lack the time to do, and the young men's committee will find itself with plenty of work on hand. There are a few who have suggested starting an entirely separate organization, but two organizations would so divide the support, financially and otherwise, that neither would have strength, and it has been decided to have a rousing big campaign for membership in the old organization and then let those who wish to belong to the younger branch, or the young men's committee of the old Citizens' association. All dues to be paid into one treasury and the funds divided between the branches of the organization in a way that will be arranged later, each branch of the club working along its own lines, having its own officers and carrying out its own ideas, but to be closely enough affiliated not to work to cross purposes or leave things undone, each with the idea that the other club will do them.

Mr. Boynton detailed a few of the projects that would come in the scope of the new committee's work, such as noon-day luncheons once a month when important topics will be discussed, adding the hard roads movement, an annual merchants' picnic, advertising Dixon in various ways, one of which would be to post painted signs on all roads leading into Dixon for at least 30 miles out, directing travelers to this city (as does Rockford, South Bend and other live cities) and the working out of the many other ideas which will be brought forth.

H. L. Fordham Speaks.

H. L. Fordham was present and congratulated the young men on their idea, which he heartily favored, in a very encouraging and enthusiastic talk. Mr. Fordham expressed the sentiment of every man in the hall when he said that he was "for" the young men's project and was anxious to back them up in any way he could to help them.

Rogers Explains Attitude.

Oliver Rogers explained that the idea of getting the young men into the organization was to bring out the latent talent in our younger generation of business men, who will work hard with men of about their own age, but who would hesitate to take active part, get up and make suggestions, or explain their viewpoint in a meeting of older and more experienced men.

O. H. Martin and Thomas Young, directors of the Citizens' association, were present and stated that they were heartily in favor of the proposition and believed it would work out to the benefit of Dixon. Several others spoke briefly of their belief in the plan and pledged their support and it was decided that the first thing to be done would be to hold a mass meeting to which every one, business man, lawyer, doctor, banker, clerk, laborer—in fact, anyone and everyone interested in boosting Dixon and her future prosperity is invited and everyone present last night was made a member of a committee to help interest others in the movement and get a large attendance at the mass meeting. The date of the mass meeting will be set by a committee, appointed last evening, consisting of Oliver Rogers, Herbert Harms H. L. Fordham B. F. Downing and Geo. Shaw. This committee will make arrangements for the meeting, the date of which will be announced within a day or two.

One thing was very evident last night. Whatever the young men lack, it is not enthusiasm, and enthusiasm is a great asset. It will oftentimes carry through a project which would appear impossible to the experienced and veteran booster.

It is proposed to set the yearly dues at a very nominal figure so that everyone will feel able to join, and to thereby have a large organization, rather than to have high dues and a smaller membership.

HEAVY ADVERTISING IN THE TELEGRAPH

TEN PAGES ARE REQUIRED TO CONTAIN TODAY'S NEWS AND ADVERTISING

The Telegraph this evening, to accommodate the enormous advertising business that live merchants have placed with the paper, without crowding the news matter, is compelled to issue a ten page paper in order that reading matter may not be crowded out. The Telegraph is recognized as one of the leading advertising agencies in northern Illinois, as is attested by the steady and enormous number of ads carried.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY CONVENTION HAS HAD SUCCESSFUL SESSION

LARGEST DELEGATION IN HISTORY IS PRESENT THIS YEAR.

PEARL MEDAL CONTEST TONIGHT

Election of Officers Was Held Today This Evening's Meeting Will Close Convention.

The Women's Missionary convention at Grace Evangelical church in this city continues to enthuse and inspire at each session. 95 were entertained at dinner and 195 at supper. All those entertained were delegates and other visitors and more are coming on each train. The convention is proving one of the most successful in the history of the society.

The reports are especially encouraging. Advancement has been made in all lines over last year, money raised, $200; 87 more papers, 104 more subscribers; 11 societies raised over $100; Fame, $187; Polo, $139; Deerfield, $137; Highland Park, $145; Naperville Grove, $131; Ashton, $129; Davis, $122; Sterling, $104; Pierce, $104; Shannon, $103; Freeport, $101.

The organizers' report showed aggressive work. Ten of the societies in the Freeport district reached 100 credit mark; Davis, Ebenezer, Forrester, Freeport, Geneseo, Lorain, Rockford, Sterling.

With the pearl medal contest to be held this evening, 20 contests will have been held in the Illinois conference, the offerings amounting to $183.76.

Wednesday P. M.

The beautiful solo, "Where He Leads Me" was sung by Miss Ellen Westin of Chicago.

Miss Fluck, the Illinois conference missionary, gave a helpful address on "The Worth of a Young Life Consecrated to God in Mission Service." The value of a life spent in missionary service is to be estimated by God's standard, not as is done in the commercial world by dollars and cents. Miss Isabelle Thoburn, who gave her life in service for the women of India, is a rebuke to those living in ease. The value of youth is above all others because of larger possibilities, as this is the age of enthusiasm and vigor. Horace Pitkin, a martyr in China during the Boxer uprising, shows this when he says: "Jesus shall reign and we hope for a long life of service." The value of consecration to God is brought out so clearly in lives of men like Livingston and Greenfield. Livingston after passing through almost insurmountable circumstances, says "My Jesus my King, my life, my all; I again dedicate my whole life to Thee." Greenfield as he labors in Labrador, does not count it a sacrifice, but a privilege to have an opportunity to pay the debt he owes to God.

During the half-hour conference on Young People's Missionary Problems, conducted by Mrs. Josie McLain, many instructive and helpful thoughts were brought out. At the close of the service $163.61 was raised for the missionary cause in China.

The convention in spite of rain and threatening weather, has the best attendance in the history of the organization, 54 delegates, 8 pastors and 20 visitors, with more to come.

Branch Librarian's Report
The result of this department of the missionary work is inestimable. The information and inspiration which the many readers receive from these missionary books will mean greater activity in the Master's service. Total number of readings reported in conference 1246. Naperville read 130, the largest number.

This year nineteen contests have been held in the state which is twelve more than last year, and with the pearl medal contest which is to be held tonight makes the number twenty. This is another phase of the missionary work, the value of which cannot be measured. In money the nineteen contests mean $183.76 and tonight's offering will surely make this $200.

MERCHANTS ADVERTISE SALES

Saturday Will Be Good Day for Bargains in Dixon and Shoppers Are Invited to Come.

An Amboy father, showing signs of worry, was in Dixon today trying to ascertain if his son had been married here on or about the tenth of the month. He stated that he had heard the boy was married about that time, and that he had visited Freeport, Morrison and Dixon in an effort to ascertain the truth of the rumor. In neither county seat, however, was there record of a license having been issued and when the father left Dixon he was greatly relieved.

DISCUSS JOINING THE STATE WOMEN FEDERATED CLUBS

CLOSING SESSION OF 13TH DISTRICT WOMEN'S CLUBS WAS HELD YESTERDAY.

DELEGATES ENJOYED VISIT

Convention in Dixon Was Very Successful Affair—Resolutions Are Passed.

The closing session of the Federated Women's clubs at the M. E. church yesterday afternoon proved as interesting and profitable as the preceding ones and the visitors as well as the Dixon ladies will long carry the memory of the enjoyable hours spent in our city.

Mrs. Minne Starr Granger of Belvidere addressed the meeting, her subject being A Message from the General Federation, and it was listened to with attention. She was called upon to fully discuss the question brought before the Federation yesterday, that of the district federation joining the state federation. The question was not settled finally, but the name of Mrs. Clark, whose term as president of the federation has not expired, was presented for that of state vice president. After a lengthy discussion of the question the meeting adjourned, the next meeting to be held at Sterling at a date given later.

The entire program has been enjoyed thoroughly and the visitors expressed themselves as highly pleased with the hospitality of Dixon. The menus prepared for the edification of the guests at the church have been all that could be desired.

All the Dixon ladies have worked hard in an endeavor to make the convention a success, but too much cannot be said of Mrs. Z. W. Moss, president of the Phidian Art club of Dixon, in her labors for the success of the convention of 1913 in Dixon.

The committee on resolutions appointed yesterday morning by President Clark was made up of the following ladies and composed of Mrs. Green of Morrison, Miss Porter of Freeport and Mrs. Doty of Amboy, and during the afternoon they presented the following resolutions:

Be it Resolved, That we express in behalf of the convention, the hearty thanks and earnest appreciation of the kindness and hospitality of the Dixon ladies in welcoming us to their city and so royally preparing for our entertainment, in which the splendid program prepared, the excellent music, the delightful boat ride and the many creature comforts have played a most conspicuous part.

Be it Resolved, That a vote of thanks be extended to the Mayor of Dixon for his gracious address, to the trustees of the M. E. church, who have so kindly allowed the use of their commodious edifice, and to the press for their hearty co-operation.

Be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be placed upon the records of the meeting and copies be sent to the newspapers of Dixon for publication.

MRS. H. S. GREEN,
MRS. F. DOTY,
KATHERINE M. PORTER,
Committee on Resolutions.

DIXON MON IS HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

WILLIAM COLLINS ARRESTED LAST NIGHT ON COMPLAINT OF CHAS. SWORM.

IS GRANTED CONTINUANCE

Was Selling Tombstones on Commission and is Charged With Forging Name of Supposed Customer to Order.

Wm. Collins, alias James McCue, was held pending hearing under bonds of $500 by Justice John B. Crabtree this morning, the charge being forgery. Collins was employed by Charles Sworm, the Dixon monument man, some time ago, to solicit orders for stones and in addition to his salary of $70 per month he was to receive a commission of 10 percent on each order.

Recently he turned in an order purporting to be from Henry Smith of Shabbona DeKalb county, amounting to $475, and accordingly Mr. Sworm paid him 10 percent of that sum, $47.50 and then wrote to Mr. Smith for instructions concerning the lettering of the stone. Mr. Smith wrote back that he had ordered no stone and had signed no contract, and as the signature on his letter was not like the supposed signature on the contract, the matter was placed in the hands of the officers, with the result that Collins was arrested last night.

When arraigned this morning he made request for a continuance but admitted that he had used different names at various times in his career. He could not furnish the bond required by the justice and accordingly will board with Sheriff Reid until Saturday, May 31, when he will be tried.

REACH AGREEMENT IN HINES VS. AMBOY

SUIT AGAINST AMBOY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT IS DISMISSED.

An agreement was reached by the parties in the Hines vs. Amboy mandamus suit which was called for trial yesterday afternoon in the Lee county circuit court and accordingly the suit was dismissed at the plaintiff's costs. Judge Heard has also confirmed the Master's sale in the Lebre-Lebre partition suit. The homestead, Eighth street and Highland avenue, had been sold for $700 at the Master's sale and several of the heirs asked to have the sale set aside, maintaining that the property had not brought sufficient cash. After many hearings many witnesses Judge Heard held that the sale should stand.

MANY DIXON STREETS GET BATH OF OIL

PREPARATION FOR LAYING THE DUST SUCCESSFULLY APPLIED HERE.

Street oiling in Dixon has been carried on to a much greater extent this spring than it was last year and as a result many of the principal highways of the city have received the dressing. East Second street and Galena avenue are two of the most heavily traveled streets that were oiled this year, while Depot avenue, Central Place, Peoria avenue and many other minor thoroughfares have also been rendered dustless.

FREEPORT TEAM PLAYS HERE

Charlie Keenan Will Toss Sunday—Freeport Has Strong Lineup and Fast Game is Expected.

Interest in Sunday's game between the Dixon Stars and Freeport Athletics is being manifest and a big crowd of fans will certainly turn out to encourage the Stars, who are putting up an exceptionally strong game of ball this season, although luck has been breaking against them. The Cops have won but one of their three games, that being the opener with the Sterling West Ends, but each of the other games was lost by one run.

The boys are determined to shake off the jinx Sunday, and therefore they will need the assistance of every fan. Charlie Keenan, who will pitch, has been taking easy workouts every night this week and has his "stuff" working right, so with proper support there'll be something doing by the Dixon bunch all right. The execution, which was issued to satisfy a civil suit instituted in a Logan county court, provided against Stewart if found in Logan county and accordingly, on petition of Stewart's attorney, Clyde Smith, Judge Heard issued a writ of habeas corpus, prohibiting the sheriff from taking the young fellow. The Logan county sheriff, however, is still in the city awaiting advice from the court in that county.

"My Feet Were Just Aching For TIZ"

Let Your Poor, Tired, Chafed, Tender Feet "Spread Out" Gloriously in a Bath of TIZ!

Send at Once for Free Trial Package.

"O, O, glory what a feeling! Wonderful what TIZ will do for your feet!" Just take your shoes off, and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, achy, corn-plagued, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a TIZ bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy. They'll look up at you and almost talk, and then they'll take another dive in that TIZ bath! Yes, TIZ is life to feet! The man or woman who says there's anything like, or as good as, TIZ never had a foot in a TIZ bath. You'll be able to wear smaller shoes, too, when you use TIZ; your feet will keep cozy.

Miss M. Pearl Lloyd, Glendora, Wis., got one box of TIZ for her mother. "She has had sore, tender feet for a long time," writes Miss Lloyd, "but after using TIZ her feet are not troubling her."

TIZ operates under a new principle, drawing out all the poisonous exudations that make feet sore, corny and tired. There's nothing else like TIZ, so refuse any imitation. If anyone offers you a substitute, just remember your poor, suffering feet, and tell him to give you what you asked for.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price. Money back if TIZ doesn't do all we say. For a free trial package write today to: Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.

Deacon Pringle has invented a recipe to beat the high cost of living. It follows:

Eat no meat.
Burn no gasoline.
Buy no fuel for the furnace.
Live entirely upon cornmeal mush.
Attend no theatrical entertainment whatever.
Make one suit of clothes last seven or eight years.

Cut out tobacco in all forms and smoke dockweed and whippoorwill.
But the best way yet invented is to go and live with your wife's relatives.

Economy is not always to be praised. When a man smokes one corn cob pipe for nineteen years he is not much of a friend to the community in which he lives.

ILLINOIS NEWS

Morrison—The steering gear on the auto owned by Dr. Knapp of Chicago, broke Sunday afternoon while the driver and the members of his family were going toward Gardin and as a result of the accident to the gear, the car turned turtle over a five foot embankment.

Mrs. Knapp was thrown from the car into a hedge fence along the highway and was quite badly bruised and scratched up. The other members of the party escaped, although two of the young ladies were pinned under the car.

The accident happened on the Transcontinental highway just north of Round Grove.

Aurora—An Aurora bound car on the third rail line of the Aurora, Elgin and Chicago electric line, struck and killed a fifteen months old baby girl today who had wandered upon the track near Wheaton.

The little child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Stewart, who but recently moved into the country for the summer from Chicago, largely because of their baby.

Monmouth—Fred Shea and Chas. Wilson, the two bank burglar suspects captured here by the Warren county officers Friday were positively identified by two persons from Alpha here as the men observed hanging about Alpha prior to the robbery and who disappeared shortly after. A money sack found in the possession of one of the men was also identified by Cashier H. G. Peterson of the N. Henderson bank as one which had been made for the bank by his mother. A third factor in placing the guilt was several change wrappers which had been turned wrong side out but which bore the bank's mark and which were declared to have been the property of the bank. Quite a number of these wrappers were taken from the bank at the time of the robbery.

La Salle—Two coal miners were killed at La Salle Saturday night about 10 o'clock when they were struck by freight No. 52 northbound. The men were walking along the track when they were struck. One was killed instantly and the other died at the hospital several hours later.

Freeport—Ollie Richards of this city lies in a rather serious condition at the St. Francis hospital today, and Wes Baughman, also a Freeport youth, is being hunted by police authorities as the result of an altercation between these two men which took place last night about 2:30 o'clock in the rear of the Ritchie & Lukermann machine shop on Van Buren street.

WALKER SUCCUMBS AFTER HARD FIGHT

Banker Who Took Deadly Poison
By Mistake Passes Away Quietly.

WAS UNCONSCIOUS FOR HOURS

Cattle Salesman of Sioux City, Iowa, Takes Bichloride of Mercury With Suicidal intent and is Slowly Dying.

Macon Ga., May 22.—Banker B. Sanders Walker, who on Wednesday of last week took a bichloride of mercury tablet by mistake for a headache powder, died early today after putting up a brave fight for his life.

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon he lapsed into unconsciousness. His physicians then predicted the end would come in less than twenty-four hours.

He never regained consciousness. His immediate family was at his bedside.

The physicians Wednesday told Walker he would be some time dying and predicted that he would finally lapse into coma and pass away in that state. In the afternoon the patient became unconscious in the hospital to which his wife had taken him.

Has No Fear of Death.
Walker was cheerful all the morning and chatted a little with his wife and the friends who called to see him. It was about three o'clock when the physicians informed him that he would soon become unconscious and pass away. When Walker heard this he said:

"If this be death, then none need fear its terrors."

He made no further reference to death, but continued to converse with his wife until nearly four o'clock. Then he seemed to become drowsy and soon he became unconscious. Later the attending physicians, who are said to have exhausted every known method of treatment, expressed the belief that Walker could not live more than a few hours.

Doctors Won't Discuss Treatment.
Efforts to ascertain the exact treatment Walker was given were unavailing. The physicians declined to discuss this subject. It is understood, however, that they had been in close communication with physicians at the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore.

Walker fought off death longer than was expected, but attending physicians state that they know of instances where persons who have taken bichloride of mercury have lived for twenty-five days.

Walker's nerve during the week's battle drew telegrams of admiration from all over the United States.

Iowa Also Victim of Deadly Tablets.
Sioux City, Ia., May 22.—After swallowing three tablets of bichloride of mercury, Robert Palmer, a cattle salesman and a member of one of the wealthiest families of Sioux City, is waiting slow death from the poison.

Palmer was in a local hotel when he took the tablets. He rushed into the street shouting: "I've done it! I've done it!"

A police sergeant who was passing rushed up to Palmer in the excited crowd and grasped him. Palmer picked another tablet from a bottle he had in his hand and swallowed it. The officer overpowered him.

Reports at a hospital were that Palmer has little hope of recovery. Physicians say that he may live for from a week to fifteen days, but that death is certain.

Palmer is resigned to his fate and insists that he be taken from the hospital to his home to die.

GOVERNMENT HAS FIRE SALE

Offers Geological Records at Fifth and Tenth of Usual Prices.

Washington, May 22.—One result of a recent fire in the building it occupies is the revival of the movement for a new building for the United States geological survey. Another result is a "fire sale" of 150,000 geological folios and maps that ordinarily cost 25 to 50 cents each.

"All these are now to be had at five cents each," says the announcement of the sale. "The 188 numbers describe the geology of 175,000 square miles of the United States."

"The stock includes 50,000 to 100,000 copies on which the real damage is practically negligible."

PROTEST NICARAGUAN CANAL

Citizens in San Salvador Denounce Government's Grant to America.

San Salvador, May 22.—A formal protest was made by prominent Nicaraguans and Hondurans, residents here, to the American minister, William Heimke, against the action of the Nicaraguan government in granting the United States the right to build a canal across Nicaragua and establish a naval station. It is contended that such a concession would jeopardize the sovereignty of the Central American states.

Knifeless Surgery Successful.
New Orleans, May 22.—Announcement that a half dozen knifeless surgical operations in the Charity hospital had been successful was made here. Most of the cases treated were cancerous growth of the Sarcoma type.

"Our Personal Guarantee to all Skin Sufferers"

So when we tell you that we have found the eczema remedy and that we stand back of it with the manufacturer's iron clad guarantee, backed by ourselves you can depend upon it that we give our advice not in order to sell a few bottles of medicine to skin sufferers, but because we know how it will help our business if we help our patrons.

We keep in stock and sell all the well known skin remedies. But we will say this: If you are suffering from any kind of skin trouble, eczema, psoriasis, rash or tetter, we want you to try a full size bottle of D. D. D. Prescription. And, if it does not do the work, this bottle will cost you nothing. You alone to judge.

Again and again we have seen how a few drops of this simple wash applied to the skin, takes away the itch, instantly. And the cures all seem to be permanent.

D. D. D. Prescription made by the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago, is composed of thymol, glycerine, oil of wintergreen and other healing, soothing, cooling ingredients. And if you are just crazy with itch, you will feel soothed and cooled, the itch absolutely washed away the moment you applied this D. D. D.

Cut Your Ice Bill in Half

Here's Something Much Better Than Wrapping Ice in Paper

Ice melts very, very slowly—lasts twice as long as in ordinary refrigerators, in the

Automatic Refrigerator

The cold can't get out and the heat can't get in, through its eight walls of insulation.

One of these eight walls is a thick layer of mineral wool. Look at the cut at the right and find this layer of mineral wool indicated. This unique product is a mass of tiny balls of glass. Each ball contains a vacuum. It's the greatest ice-saving insulating product in existence.

The big cost of a refrigerator is not its first cost but its ice cost. The Automatic quickly pays for itself and saves its cost time and time again, because it's so economical of ice. It's well worth coming to see.

"WE SHOULD WORRY"

TO BE CLASS MOTTO

Racine, Wis., May 21.—"Pertur-

This noble sounding Latin word, which at least has the virtue of brevity, is the motto of the class of '13 at Racine high school. As far as the general public is concerned, it probably appears as inspiring as any other phrase in ancient languages would and if an inquisitive high school teacher had not translated it into English everyone would have been entirely satisfied.

Some one did this however, and here is the meaning of the word as deduced from a study of a dictionary of the classics:

"WE SHOULD WORRY"

Principal L. H. Brooks has not yet announced what he will do about it the graduating class probably will realize the absurdity of the motto before it is too late to adopt a different one."

When he left home he wore a gray and black striped suit, gray outing flannel shirt, gray cap, mixed brown overcoat and patent leather shoes.

Such curbing shall be extended at all street intersections to connect with curbs thereat constructed or to be constructed, and be curved at alley intersections and extended to the line of the adjoining property; in the City of Dixon, County of Lee, and State of Illinois, as provided for in Local Improvement Ordinance No. 144, Series of 1913 of said City of Dixon, will be by the secretary of said Board of Local Improvements at the City Clerk's Office in the City of Dixon, Lee County, Illinois, until two o'clock p. m. on Monday, the 2nd day of June, A. D. 1913, and will be publicly opened by the said Board of Local Improvements at a meeting to be held at the said City Clerk's office at the said hour and day, and at the same time and place said Board of Local Improvements will in open session examine such proposals as have been delivered to it and publicly declare the same.

SPECIFICATIONS

That the subgrade for the pavement described in Section One shall be prepared by first removing all materials found upon the roadway to be paved or filling the depressions therein to a grade 10 inches below the grade given. Such subgrade shall then be thoroughly compacted by rolling, tamping and flushing as may be necessary to produce a thoroughly compact and uniform subgrade.

Upon the subgrade so formed shall be placed a foundation of crushed stone, spread to a uniform thickness, the top of which shall be substantially six inches below the grade given. The voids in said stone foundation shall then be thoroughly filled with screenings or sand and the whole thoroughly compacted in like manner as provided for compacting the subgrade. When so compacted the surface shall be at all points substantially six inches below the grade given.

Upon the foundation so formed a sand cushion two (2) inches thick shall be spread and shaped with suitable template. Upon this sand cushion shall be laid suitable vitrified brick or block and the spaces between such bricks or blocks thoroughly filled with with approved pitch or asphalt filler, the kind and quality shall be designated by the bidder in his bid, and rolled until the whole is a firm, compact roadway, conforming at all points to the grade given.

PAVING BRICK OR BLOCKS

The brick must be strictly No. 1 "pavers" of the size commercially known as vitrified brick or vitrified blocks as this matter may be agreed upon between the contractor and the Board of Local Improvements.

The width of the "pavers" must not vary to exceed one-eighth of an inch. They must be made of shale, be thoroughly annealed, be tough and durable, regular in size and shape, and evenly burned. When broken, the block shall exhibit a dense, stone-like body, uniform in color throughout the inside, free from lumps of uncrushed shale or clay, from lime, air pockets, cracks, or marked laminations. Kiln marks or surface cracks must not exceed three-sixteenths of an inch in depth. Blocks so distorted in burning that they will not lay evenly in the pavement will be rejected.

"Pavers" of the run or those proposed to be used in the pavement, shall be submitted to a test of an hour in the National Brick Manufacturers' Association, standard rattle adopted in 1911, under the conditions prescribed by that Association, and if the loss by abrasion in such tests exceeds such per cent of the original weight as is named by the bidder in his bid, then such brick or blocks will be rejected. Nor must the individual samples show a loss exceeding the said rate per cent.

The "Pavers" must also stand the following water test: After being thoroughly dried for twenty-four hours at 212 degrees Fahrenheit, and then immersed forty-eight hours in water, they must not absorb to exceed three per cent of their own weight of water.

And regardless of when and where the bricks or blocks have been inspected, the said inspection will not prevent their rejection, at any time, from the improvement.

THE LAYING OF THE BRICK

On the sand cushion the brick shall be laid on edge, close together, in straight lines from curb to opposite curb, at right angles thereto, and perpendicular to the surface of the street. Sufficient space shall be left between courses to permit the filler to flow freely to the bottom of all voids.

In laying the brick joints shall be broken by laps of not less than three (3) inches. For this purpose broken bricks may be used in starting courses and making closures, but no piece of brick is to be less than three inches long when dressed true and square.

After the blocks are laid in the pavement, it shall be thoroughly cleaned and inspected, and all soft and defective blocks removed and replaced with good ones.

Thereafter the pavement shall be rolled to a smooth and even surface with a road roller of not less than four (4) nor more than five (5) tons, weighing from 150 to 175 pounds to the lineal inch in width of roller.

Before rolling is begun, the pavement next the curb shall be firmly tamped to a true and even grade with a sixty-pound tamper; upon a three-inch plank, twelve inches wide and at least eight feet long. Such tamping is to be done elsewhere, also, if for any reason it is not practicable for the roller to operate in such place.

The process of rolling will then begin next to one of the curbs and proceed by narrow laps to the crown of the street. It will then begin at the opposite curb and work to the crown of the street in like manner.

All the rolling lengthwise of the street shall be done in this way, namely: from curb to crown. Transverse or diagonal rolling will be at the direction of the Board of Local Improvements.

BITUMINOUS FILLER

The pitch or asphalt for use as a filler shall be subject to approval by the Board of Local Improvements and shall be of such quality that its melting point shall be not less than 212 degrees Fahrenheit, and of such viscous tenacity that it will adhere to the brick at any temperature usual in the locality, and shall be poured into the voids at a temperature of not more than 250 degrees without having been heated to a temperature greater than 300 degrees, or other similar material equal thereto.

THE ENDS OF THE IMPROVEMENT

At the ends of the improvement there shall be laid a "header" course, from curb to curb, so dressed as to conform to the cross section of proposed improvement.

Such "header" shall be a row of paving blocks, set on end, such way of the blocks as to be four (4) inches wide, and shall be backed up with a body of macadam, six feet wide, twelve inches deep at the header, and six inches deep at the outer edge.

EARTH REMOVAL

Surplus dirt or stone not used in the construction of this improvement shall be removed to such place as the Board of Local Improvements may direct without additional compensation, but such haul shall not exceed one-half mile.

All rolling shall be with a roller weighing not less than five tons and at each rolling said roller shall be passed over every part of the surface rolled not less than four times.

Sand for this improvement shall be clean, sharp sand, free from clay, loam or gravel, all of which will pass through a screen of four meshes per inch.

CLEARING UP

All rubbish or unused material due to or connected with the construction of this improvement must be removed when the paving is completed.

CURBING

A concrete curbing shall be constructed along both sides of the roadways of said street and avenues for the entire length of the improvement, except where stone or concrete curbing now exists and except across the roadways of the intersecting streets where it shall be turned at the curb lines thereof, with a radius of five feet, and extended along said curb lines to the property lines produced, of said streets and except across the roadways of existing driveway approaches and proposed driveway approaches for the adjoining property, where it shall be turned at the sides thereof, with a radius of five feet, and extended, at right angles, to the street curbs, to the adjacent sidewalk lines.

All curbing shall be set with its road-way face along the established curb lines.

All curbing shall be constructed to grade in accordance with the grade lines herein established.

The curbing shall be twenty inches deep, eight inches thick at the base and six inches thick at the top, the batter being on the road-way face of the curb, with the back of the curb set in a vertical plane. The upper road-way edge shall be rounded to a radius of one inch.

A trench shall be excavated to a depth of six inches below the entire bottom of the curbing, twelve inches in width, on which shall be laid a foundation of sand, gravel, broken stone or cinders six inches in thickness after being compacted. This foundation shall be flooded with water and thoroughly rammed to a true and even surface.

Upon this foundation shall be set the curbing which shall be constructed so as to form one continuous and solid mass, divided every seven feet of its length into separate stones, and the concrete portion of which shall be composed of one part in bulk, of Portland cement, two parts, in bulk, of good, clean, coarse, sharp sand, and four parts, in bulk, of screened gravel of such size that the fragments shall not be larger than one and one-half inches in the greatest dimension. If sand and gravel can be found, already in said proper proportions for said concrete, the same may be used as the aggregate, and mixed in the proportion of one part of cement to five parts of the aggregate.

All cement used in the construction of said curbing shall be American Portland, dry and well seasoned and of equal or better quality than "Medusa."

The ingredients of the concrete shall be thoroughly mixed dry until the mixture shows a uniform color without streaks, then a sufficient amount of water shall be added and the whole mass shall be turned and mixed until mortar adheres to each fragment. The concrete thus mixed shall have such a consistency that when rammed the mass will not shake like jelly, but will when struck, compact within the area of the face of the rammer without displacing the material laterally.

The concrete thus prepared shall be immediately placed in the proper moulds and forms, well tamped and made compact before the cement has begun to set. No retamping of concrete will be permitted.

The exposed surface of the concrete shall be finished with a thin plastered coat, consisting of one part, in bulk, of Portland cement, and one part, in bulk, of clean, sharp sand, which finishing coat shall be put in place before the body of said curbing shall become dry.

All curbing shall be properly back filled for at least four feet back thereof, to a level with the top of the curbing with the materials taken from the excavation. Said back-filling shall be thoroughly tamped.

The finished curbing shall be protected from the sun and wind by covering and by sprinkling with water for at least twenty-four hours after completion.

The work for which said tenders are invited is the construction of about 2185.3 cubic yards of excavation, about 51903 cubic yards of clean sand in cushion, about 1557.1 cubic yards of crushed stone in foundation, about 9341.2 square yards of vitrified brick or block pavement, with approved pitch or asphalt filler, about 1030 lineal feet of cement concrete curbing as provided for in Local Improvement Ordinance No. 144 Series of 1913, of the City of Dixon, Illinois.

Each bid for this work must be accompanied by certified check or cash for an amount not less than ten per cent of the aggregate of such proposals. All certified checks must be drawn upon some responsible bank doing business in said City of Dixon and must be payable to the order of the President of the Board of Local Improvements in his official capacity. No bids will be considered unless accompanied by such certified check or cash.

Said cash or certified checks will be held by said Board of Local Improvements until all the bids have been canvassed and the contract has been awarded and signed. The return of said checks or cash to the successful bidder being conditioned upon his appearance within fifteen (15) days after having been notified of the award having been made to him or them, accompanied by his or their bondsmen and executing a contract with said Board of Local Improvements for the completion of the work so awarded and giving a bond satisfactory to said Board of Local Improvements.

A bond of Seventeen Thousand ($17,000) Dollars will be required conditioned for the fulfillment of the contract in accordance with the ordinance and specifications and to the satisfaction of the said Board of Local Improvements. All proposals must be made on blanks which will be furnished bidders at said City Clerk's Office.

The payment for the work for which said tenders are invited is to be made in cash or bonds, payable when the contract is complete, and the work accepted by the Board of Local Improvements, bonds to draw interest at five per centum. No bid will be considered unless the party making it shall furnish evidence satisfactory to said Board of Local Improvements of his experience and ability in this class of work and that he can control sufficient capital to enable him to successfully prosecute the same in case the contract shall be awarded to him.

Bidders will examine the ordinance, maps, plans, profiles, and specifications and also the locality in which said work is to be done and judge for themselves of all the circumstances and surrounding conditions affecting the cost and nature of the work.

Specifications may be seen at the office of the City Clerk of the City of Dixon from and after this date.

Dated at Dixon, Illinois, May 20th, A. D. 1913.

Signed, BOARD OF LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS OF THE CITY OF DIXON.

By MARK C. KELLER,

Its Attorney.

HUSBAND TIRED OF SEEING HER SUFFER

Procured Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which made His Wife a Well Woman.

Middletown, Pa.—"I had headache, backache and such awful bearing down pains that I could not be on my feet at times and I had organic inflammation so badly that I was not able to do my work. I could not get a good meal for my husband and one child. My neighbors said they thought my suffering was terrible. "My husband got tired of seeing me suffer and one night went to the drug store and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me I must take it. I can't tell you all I suffered and I can't tell you all that your medicine has done for me. I was greatly benefited from the first and it has made me a well woman. I can do all my housework and even helped some of my friends as well. I think it is a wonderful help to all suffering women. I have got several to take it after seeing what it has done for me."—Mrs. EMMA ESPENSHADE, 219 East Main St., Middletown, Pa.

The Pinkham record is a proud and honorable one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY CONVENTION SESSION

Wednesday Evening The drill by the Dixon Mission Band under direction of the leader, Miss Mary Beede, gave a flag drill. This is a Band of 99 wide awake boys and girls who are the pride of Grace church. The drill was especially well given. The children sang heartily and recited well. A little 3-year old miss sang America at the close of the drill.

The anthem with which the choir favored us brought forth many comments of appreciation.

A short song service followed this after which Miss Matilda Fluck conducted the devotional prayer for our missions in China. It is for us an open door. Acts 14:27. It should be upheld by our prayers and gifts. Phil. 1:30-10.

Miss Hie-Ding-Ling's Address This well educated Chinese woman is at present studying medicine as well as taking a course at Moody Institute. When in China she was a kindergarten teacher, but there a teacher of this class teaches large boys and girls.

To secure an education she dressed as a boy so that she might go to school, till high school and then changed to girls' clothing. The life of a girl in China is one of seclusion as it is very immodest for women to appear in public. As a seven year old girl Miss Ling went to the field with her mother and saw the body of a little baby floating in a stream. She begged her mother to save the baby. Her mother said she could not as the baby was dead. There are many such sights, and these conditions made Miss Ling resolve to do all she could to put a stop to them when she grew up. She felt the best way to cope with them is as a medical missionary. The need called her as six out of ten women in China die without medical assistance. Think what that means in a population of 450,000,000, more than half being women and children. Only seven native women doctors for all China and she will be the eighth. Most women of China are not well enough educated to take up the medical studies. It is the desire of Miss Ling to found a hospital and foundlings' home on her return to China. The high regard of the Chinese for the aged is very commendable in many respects. In that country the mother-in-law is the "peach." All the sons' wives especially wait on her. In the home life the self restraining power and self control are fully developed. There are no divorces. The women never have a quarrel. Just have to swallow it and say nothing. This, in a measure accounts for the "republic" being formed within a month. Chinese love peace and are a peaceable people.

Woman's suffrage in China is given without the troubles other nations have. Mothers always decide things for their children.

Thursday A. M. The weather was more favorable and delegates were in time for roll call. The singing is especially enthusiastic. Mrs. Haines led in the devotions.

AN EPOCH IN SHOWDOM.

When Mr. Haag decided to inaugurate his 15th year as a successful purveyor of first class amusements, to the public he mapped out his route from coast to coast, opening his season early in March at Shreveport. Since then his show has traveled the states of Texas, California, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Indiana, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Tennessee, Ohio, North Carolina, South Carolina and part of Georgia; and before closing will make Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, establishing a trans-continental record never attempted by any show in one season. The show has used 56 railroads so far this season, exhibiting twice daily with the exception of Sunday.

Nature has been very good to the Mighty Haag shows this season, having been exceptionally so in the wild animal department. The baby camel, Lula is easily the favorite baby with the baby elephant close behind. Daily you can witness the children of the different cities picking their favorite baby in the big menagerie, which is most always the baby camel. The mighty Haag shows will exhibit at Dixon May 26.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—George Anderson and wife see a remarkable man come out of the Clermont hotel, look around furtively, wash his hands in the show and pass on. Commotion attracts them to the Clermont, where it is found that the beautiful Miss Edith Challenor has fallen dead on the mezzanine floor.

CHAPTER II—Anderson describes the man he saw wash his hands in the snow. The hotel manager declares him to be Orlando Brotherson.

CHAPTER III—Physicians find that Miss Challenor was stabbed and not shot, which seems to clear Brotherson of suspicion.

CHAPTER IV—Gryce, an aged detective, and Sweetwater, his assistant, take up the case. They believe Miss Challenor stabbed herself.

CHAPTER V—A paper cutter found near the scene of tragedy is believed to be the weapon used.

CHAPTER VI—Mr. Challenor tells of a batch of letters found in his daughter's desk, signed with initials strange to him. All are love letters except one which shows that the writer was displeased.

CHAPTER VII—This letter was signed by Orlando Brotherson. The others bore initials which lead to the conclusion that Brotherson wrote all of them.

CHAPTER VIII—Anderson goes with Sweetwater to identify Brotherson, who is to address a meeting of anarchists. The place is raided by the police and Brotherson escapes without being identified.

CHAPTER IX—Brotherson is found living in a tenement under the name of Dunn. He is an inventor.

CHAPTER X—Brotherson tells the corner of his acquaintance with Miss Challenor and how she repulsed him with scorn when he offered her his love.

CHAPTER XI—Sweetwater recalls the mystery of the murder of a washerwoman in which some details were similar to the Challenor affair. Brotherson was a tenant of the building adjoining the one in which the woman died.

CHAPTER XII—Further comparison of the two cases. Brotherson and Sweetwater to renewed activity.

CHAPTER XIII—Challenor admits his daughter was deeply interested, if not in love with Brotherson. He declares the letters were not written to him.

CHAPTER XIV—Brotherson gives the police a plausible explanation of his conduct. Gryce and Sweetwater are given permission to pursue their investigations independently.

CHAPTER XV—Sweetwater plans to disguise himself as a carpenter and seek lodgings in the same building with Brotherson.

CHAPTER XVI—He watches the inventor at work at night and is detected by the latter. The detective moves to a room adjoining Brotherson's.

CHAPTER XVII—He bores a hole in the wall to spy on Brotherson. He visits him and assists the inventor in his work.

CHAPTER XVIII—Repetition of the time played by the orchestra the night of Miss Challenor's death around the sleeping Brotherson to uneasy mutterings.

CHAPTER XIX—A girl sent by Sweetwater with Brotherson's letters is ordered out by Brotherson. He declares the letters were not written to him.

CHAPTER XX—Sweetwater is unmasked by Brotherson, who declares he recognized him at once.

CHAPTER XXI—Sweetwater gets a message that Gryce has made a discovery which changes the whole situation.

CHAPTER XXII—Closer inspection shows that the letters signed "O. B." were written by two different men. Sweetwater goes to Derby in search of the second "O. B.", whom he expects to find through one Doris Scott, mentioned in Miss Challenor's letters.

CHAPTER XXIII—Doris is found acting as nurse for Oswald Brotherson, who is critically ill from typhoid fever, and calls in his delirium the name of Edith. He is the manager of the local works and is beloved by the people.

CHAPTER XXIV—Oswald passes the crisis and the doctor says he will recover.

CHAPTER XXV—Sweetwater comes across a peculiar hut in the woods. He sees a load of boxes marked "O. B. Brotherson" taken from the hut under the supervision of Doris Scott.

CHAPTER XXVI—Sweetwater returns to New York and reports to Gryce, but the sole discovery of importance.

CHAPTER XXVII—Challenor appears in Derby.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

I Hope Never to See That Man.

Mr. Challenor continued to pass the house twice a day and the time finally came when he ventured up the walk.

Doris was in the window and saw him coming. She slipped softly out and intercepted him before he had stepped upon the porch.

"Miss Scott?" he asked.

"Yes, Mr. Challenor."

"You know me?" he went on, one foot on the step and one still on the walk.

Before replying she closed the door behind her. Then as she noted his surprise she carefully explained:

"Mr. Brotherson, our boarder, is just recovering from typhoid. He is still weak and acutely susceptible to the least noise. I was afraid that our voices might disturb him. Do you mind walking a little way up the road? That is, if your visit was intended for me."

Her flush, the beauty which must have struck even him, but more than all else her youth, seemed to reconcile him to this unconventional request. Bowing, he took his foot from the step, saying, as she joined him:

"Yes, you are the one I wanted to see; that is, today. Later, I hope to have the privilege of a conversation with Mr. Brotherson."

She gave him one quick look, trembling so that he offered her his arm with a fatherly air.

"I see that you understand my errand here," he proceeded, with a grave smile, meant as she knew for her encouragement. "I am glad, because we can go at once to the point. Miss Scott," he continued in a voice from which he no longer strove to keep back the evidences of deep feeling. "I have the strongest interest in your patient that one man can have in another, where there is no personal acquaintance. You who have every reason to understand my reasons for this, will accept the statement, I hope, as frankly as it is made."

"Who Is That, Johnny?"

She nodded. Her eyes were full of tears, but she did not hesitate to raise them.

"When I lost my daughter, I lost everything," he declared, as they walked slowly up the road. "Nothing excited my interest, save that which once excited hers. I am told that the deepest interest of her life lay here. I am also told that it was an interest quite worthy of her. I expect to find it so, and that is why I have come to this town and expect to linger till Mr. Brotherson has recovered sufficiently to see me. I hope that this will be agreeable to him. I hope that I am not presuming too much in cherishing these expectations."

Doris turned her candid eyes upon him.

"I cannot tell; I do not know," said she. "Nobody knows, not even the doctor, what effect the news we dread to give him will have upon Mr. Brotherson. You will have to wait—we all shall have to wait the results of that revelation. It cannot be kept from him much longer."

"You have had much to carry for one so young," was Mr. Challenor's sympathetic remark. "You must let me help you when that awful moment comes. I am at the hotel and shall stay there till Mr. Brotherson is pronounced quite well. I have no other duty now in life but to sustain him through his trouble and then, with what aid he can give, search out and find the cause of my daughter's death which I will never admit without the fullest proof, to have been one of suicide."

Doris trembled.

"It was not suicide," she declared, vehemently. "I have always felt sure that it was not; but today I know."

Her hand fell clenched on her breast and her eyes gleamed strangely. Mr. Challenor was himself greatly startled.

"I've not told any one," she went on, as he stopped short in the road, in his anxiety to understand her. "But I will tell you. Only, not here, not with all these people driving past; most of whom know me. Come to the house later—this evening, after Mr. Brotherson's room is closed for the night. I have a little sitting-room on the other side of the hall where we can talk without being heard. Would you object to doing that?"

"No, not at all," he assured her. "Expect me at eight. Will that be too early?"

"No, no. Oh, how those people stared! Let us hasten back or they may connect your name with what we want kept secret."

He smiled at her fears, but gave in to her humor; he would see her soon again and possibly learn something which would amply repay him, both for his trouble and his patience.

But when evening came and she turned to face him in that little sitting-room where he had quietly followed her, he was conscious of a change in her manner which forbade these high hopes.

"I don't know what you will think of me," she ventured at last, motioning to a chair but not sitting herself. "You have had time to think over what I said and probably expect something real—something you could tell people. But it isn't like that. It's a feeling—a belief. I'm so sure—"

"Sure of what, Miss Scott?"

She gave a glance at the door before stepping up nearer. He had not taken the chair she proffered.

"Sure that I have seen the face of the man who murdered her. It was in a dream," she whisperingly completed, her great eyes misty with awe.

"A dream, Miss Scott?" He tried to hide his disappointment.

"Yes; I knew that it would sound foolish to you; it sounds foolish to me. But listen, sir. Listen to what I have to tell and then you can judge. I was very much agitated yesterday. I had to write a letter to Mr. Brotherson's dictation—a letter to her. You can understand my horror and the effort I made to hide my emotion. I was quite unnerved. I could not sleep till morning, and then—and then—I saw—I hope I can describe it."

Grasping at a nearby chair, she leaned on it for support, closing her eyes to all but that inner vision. A breathless moment followed, then she murmured in strained monotonous tones:

"I see it again—just as I saw it in the early morning—but even more plainly, if that is possible. A hall—I should call it a hall, though I don't remember seeing any place like it before, with a little staircase at the side, up which there comes a man, who stops just at the top and looks intently my way. There is fierceness in his face—a look which means no good to anybody—and as his hand goes to his overcoat pocket, drawing out something which I cannot describe, but which he handles as if it were a pistol, I feel a horrible fear, and—and—" The child was staggering, and the hand which was free had sought her heart where it lay clenched, the knuckles showing white in the dim light.

Mr. Challenor watched her with dilated eyes, the spell under which she spoke falling in some degree upon him. Had she finished? Was this all? No; she is speaking again, but very low, almost in a whisper.

"There is music—a crash—but I plainly see his other hand approach the object he is holding. He takes something from the end—the object is pointed my way—I am looking into—into—what? I do not know. I cannot even see him now. The space where he stood is empty. Everything fades, and I wake with a loud cry in my ears and a sense of death here."

She had lifted her hand and struck at her heart, opening her eyes as she did so. "Yet it was not I who had been shot," she added softly.

Mr. Challenor shuddered. This was like the reopening of his daughter's grave. But he had entered upon the scene with a full appreciation of the ordeal awaiting him and he did not lose his calmness, or the control of his judgment.

"Be seated, Miss Scott," he entreated, taking a chair himself. "You have described the spot and some of the circumstances of my daughter's death as accurately as if you had been there. But you have doubtless read a full account of those details in the papers; possibly seen pictures which would make the place quite real to you. The mind is a strange storehouse. We do not always know what lies hidden within it."

"That's true," she admitted. "But the man! I had never seen the man, or any picture of him, and his face was clearest of all. I should know it if I saw it anywhere. It is imprinted on my memory as plainly as yours. Oh, I hope never to see that man!"

Leaving toward her that he might get her full attention, he waited till her eyes met his, then quietly asked:

"Have you ever named this man to yourself?"

She started and dropped her eyes. "I do not dare to," said she.

"Why?"

"Because I've read in the papers that the man who stood there had the same name as—"

"Tell me, Miss Scott."

"As Mr. Brotherson's brother."

"But you do not think it was his brother?"

"I do not know."

"You've never seen his brother?"

"Never."

"Nor his picture?"

"No, Mr. Brotherson has none."

"Aren't his friends? Does he never mention Orlando?"

"Very, very rarely. But I've no reason to think they are not on good terms. I know they correspond."

"Miss Scott?"

"Yes, Mr. Challenor."

"You must not rely too much upon your dream."

Her eyes flashed to his and then fell again.

"Dreams are not revelations; they are the reproduction of what already lies hidden in the mind. I can prove that your dream is such."

"How?" She looked startled.

"You speak of seeing something being leveled at you which made you think of a pistol."

"Yes, I was looking directly into it."

"But my daughter was not shot. She died from a stab."

Doris' lovely face, with its tender lines and girlish curves, took on a strange look of conviction which deepened, rather than melted under his indulgent, but penetrating gaze.

"I know that you think so—but my dream says no. I saw this object. It was pointed directly towards me—above all, I saw his face. It was the face of one whose finger is on the trigger and who means death; and I believe my dream."

Well, it was useless to reason further. Gentle in all else, she was immovable so far as this idea was concerned, and seeing this, he let the matter go and prepared to take his leave.

She seemed to be quite ready for this. Anxiety about her patient had regained its place in her mind, and her glance sped constantly toward the door. Taking her hand in his, he said some kind words, then crossed to the door and opened it. Instantly her finger flew to her lips and, obedient to his silent injunction, he took up his hat in silence, and was proceeding down the hall, when the bell rang, startling them both and causing him to step quickly back.

"Who is it?" she asked. "Father's in and visitors seldom come so late."

"Shall I see?"

She nodded, looking strangely troubled as the door swung open, revealing the tall, strong figure of a man facing them from the porch.

"A stranger," formed itself upon her lips, and she was moving forward, when the man suddenly stepped into the glare of the light, and she stopped, with a murmur of dismay which pierced Mr. Challenor's heart and prepared him for the words which now fell shudderingly from her lips.

"It is he! It is he! I said that I should know him wherever I saw him." Then with a quiet turn towards the intruder, "Oh, why, why, did you come here!"

CHAPTER XXIX.

Do You Know My Brother?

Her hands were thrust out to repel, her features were fixed; her beauty something wonderful. Orlando Brotherson, thus met, stared for a moment at the vision before him, then slowly and with effort withdrawing his gaze, he sought the face of Mr. Challenor with the first sign of open disturbance that gentleman had ever seen in him.

"Am I in Oswald Brotherson's house?" he asked. "I was directed here. But possibly there may be some mistake?"

"It is here he lives," said she, moving back automatically till she stood again by the threshold of the small room in which she had received Mr. Challenor. "Do you wish to see him tonight? If so, I fear it is impossible. He has been very ill and is not allowed to receive visits from strangers."

"I am not a stranger," announced the newcomer, with a smile few could see unmoved, it offered such a contrast to his stern and dominating figure. "I thought I heard some words of recognition which would prove your knowledge of that fact."

She did not answer. Her lips had parted, but her thought or at least the expression of her thought hung suspended in the terror of this meeting for which she was not at all prepared. He seemed to note this terror, whether or not he understood its cause, and smiled again, as he added:

"Mr. Brotherson must have spoken of his brother Orlando. I am he, Miss Scott. Will you let me come in now?"

Her eyes sought those of Mr. Challenor, who quietly nodded. Immediately she stepped from before the door which her figure had guarded and, motioning him to enter, she begged Mr. Challenor, with an imploring look, to sustain her in the interview she saw before her. He had no desire for his encounter, especially as Mr. Brotherson's glance in his direction had been anything but conciliatory. He was quite convinced that nothing was to be gained by it, but he could not resist her appeal, and followed them into the little room whose limited dimensions made the tall Orlando look bigger and stronger and more lordly in his self-confidence than ever.

"I am sorry it is so late," she began, contemplating his intrusive figure with forced composure. "We have to be very quiet in the evenings so as not to disturb your brother's first sleep which is of great importance to him."

"Then I'm not to see him tonight?"

"I pray you to wait. He's—he's been a very sick man."

"Dangerously so?"

"Yes."

Orlando continued to regard her with a peculiar awakening gaze, showing, Mr. Challenor thought, more interest in her than in his brother, and when he spoke it was mechanically and as if in sole obedience to the proprieties of the occasion.

"I did not know he was ill till very lately. His last letter was a cheerful one, and I supposed that all was right till chance revealed the truth. I came on at once. I have business here, as you probably know, Miss Scott."

She shook her head. "I know very little about business," said she.

"My brother has not told you why he expected me?"

"He has not even told me that he expected you."

"No?" The word was highly expressive; there was surprise in it and a touch of wonder, but more than all, satisfaction. "Oswald was always close-mouthed," he declared. "It's a good fault; I'm obliged to the boy."

These last words were uttered with a lightness which imposed upon his two highly agitated hearers, causing Mr. Challenor to frown and Doris to shrink back in indignation at the man who could indulge in a sportive suggestion in presence of such fears, if not of such memories, as the situation evoked.

"The hour is late for further conversation. I have a room at the hotel and will return to it at once. In the morning I hope to see my brother."

He was going, Doris not knowing what to say, Mr. Challenor not desirous of detaining him, when there came the sound of a little rattle from the other side of the hall, blanching the young girl's cheeks and causing Orlando Brotherson's brows to rise in peculiar satisfaction.

"My brother?" he asked.

"Yes," came in faltering reply. "He has heard our voices; I must go to him."

"Say that Orlando wishes him a good night," smiled her heart's enemy, with a bow of infinite grace.

She shuddered, and was hastening from the room when her glance fell on Mr. Challenor. He was pale and looked greatly disturbed. The prospect of being left alone with a man whom she had herself denounced to him as his daughter's murderer, might prove a tax to his strength to which she had no right to subject him. Pausing with an appealing air, she made him a slight gesture which he at once understood.

"I will accompany you into the hall," said he. "Then if anything is wrong, you have but to speak my name."

But Orlando Brotherson, displeased by this move, took a step which brought him between the two.

"You can hear her from here if she chances to speak. There's a point to be settled between us before either of us leave this house, and this opportunity is as good as another. Go to my brother, Miss Scott; we will await your return."

A flash from the proud banker's eye; but no demur, rather a gesture of consent. Doris, with a look of deep anxiety, sped away, and the two men stood face to face.

"Mr. Challenor, do you know my brother?"

"I have never seen him."

"Do you know him? Does he know you?"

"Not at all. We are strangers."

It was said honestly. They did not know each other. Mr. Challenor was quite correct in his statement.

"Men sometimes correspond who do not know each other. You knew that a Brotherson lived here?"

"Yes."

"And hoped to learn something about me—"

"No; my interest was solely with your brother."

"With my brother? With Oswald? What interest can you have in him apart from me? Oswald is—"

Suddenly a thought came—an unimagined one; one with power to blanch even his hardy cheek and shake a soul unassailable by all small emotions.

"Oswald Brotherson!" he repeated; adding in unintelligible tones to himself—"O. B. The same initials! They are following up these initials. Poor Oswald!" Then aloud: "It hardly becomes me, perhaps, to question your motives in this attempt at making my brother's acquaintance. I think I can guess them; but your labor will be wasted. Oswald's interests do not extend beyond this town; they hardly extend to me. We are strangers, almost. You will learn nothing from him on the subject which naturally engrosses you."

Mr. Challenor simply bowed. "I do not feel called upon," said he, "to explain my reasons for wishing to know your brother. I will simply satisfy you upon a point which may well rouse your curiosity. You remember that—that my daughter's last act was the writing of a letter to a little protégée of hers, Miss Scott was that protégée. In seeking her, I came upon him. Do you require me to say more on this subject? Wait till I have seen Mr. Oswald Brotherson and then perhaps I can do so."

Receiving no answer to this, Mr. Challenor turned again to the man who was the object of his deepest suspicions, to find him still in the daze of that unimagined thought, battling with it, scolding at it, succumbing to it and all without a word. Mr. Challenor was without clue to this struggle.

Hearings before subcommittees will be concluded Tuesday, according to the decision of the majority of the finance committee. Chairman Simons announced that hereafter the subcommittees would consider the schedules in executive session and that he hoped to have the bill in shape to report to the Democratic caucus June 3 and to the senate June 7. Hearings will be ended next Tuesday.

It has been found impossible to provide the senate with a full list of the names of men who have interviewed members of the finance committee on the tariff. This will be explained in the senate Tuesday by Senator Simmons. If it were possible to provide the list the Democrats are now willing that it should be done. A record has been kept for the most part, however, of only those men who filed briefs. Many others had personal interviews and departed when the Underwood bill reaches the senate it will contain hundreds of amendments. The Payne bill was amended in more than 800 paragraphs in 1909 and the changes made in the Underwood bill will be almost as numerous.

TARIFF EXPERTS BUSY

Radical Program Decided On by Senate Subcommittee.

Raw Material to Go On for Free List to Offset House's Stand on Manufactured Products.

Washington, May 22.—According to the decision of the subcommittee of the senate finance committee raw materials from which products are made which the house put on the free list of the tariff bill, will also be placed on the free list.

As the bill came from the house floor was on the free list and wheat was dutiable. This raised a storm among western millers, who declared that the American flour market was being opened to the Canadian miller while the American miller was barred from Canadian wheat fields. It was decided that wheat should be placed on the free list. After this raw agricultural products were placed on the free list, as were ferro-manganese, cattle and other commodities. Placing ferro-manganese on the free list is a concession to independent steel manufacturers.

These changes must be ratified by the Democratic caucus before they actually become a part of the Democratic bill.

JEALOUSY.

When we are jealous we imagine it is because we love so much.

But jealousy has nothing to do with love.

Perfect love forgives all.

Our jealous rage is violent exactly in proportion as our vanity is wounded, our pride galled.

Yet, as jealousy springs from an overlove of self, so a sound and sensible self-esteem is the best cure for it.

For, if one I love had proved untrue to me it ought to show me that she is unworthy of my anger. As Le Rochefoucauld says, "It is only persons who avoid causing jealousy who are worth being jealous of."

The trouble lies in the fact that love inordinately raises our self-complacence, and, in small souls, to be loved gives a sense of boasting pride, hence when they suspect that the flattery of love has ceased they fly into a passion of self-stung wrath.

To love is to forgive.

Love means greatness. Jealousy means pettiness.—Dr. Frank Crane, in Woman's World for June.

500 FOWL KILLERS STRIKE

Seek to Stop Western Shippers Feeding Chickens on Sand.

New York, May 22.—The situation in the New York poultry market became more critical when about 500 chicken killers struck in the various slaughter houses in the five boroughs. These men declare that they will not kill another chicken until the western shippers discontinue their practice of feeding the poultry on sand and heavy foods before unloading them on the New York markets. The strike of the chicken killers was brought into play as the most effective means of thwarting the shippers.

The poultry dealers remain firm in the stand they have taken to refuse to pay for any more fowls until feeding the chickens on sand has been stopped.

KING'S SON DODGES FETE

Prince Albert Plays Tennis Rather Than Attend Reception.

Halifax, N. S. May 22.—Prince Albert, second son of England's king, choose tennis in preference to a visit to the government house, where he was to have been received in state by the lieutenant-governor of this province. The streets were decorated and hundreds massed the sidewalks, hoping to catch a glimpse of the young prince. At the last moment he decided he would rather play tennis with cadets of the training ship Cumberland.
